Introducing...the Home Base beta!

Brrr-cky B : admin

The Home Base beta is officially live and open for all!

What is this?
Today we've launched the beta of Home Base!! This is a beta version, meaning we are still working on many aspects of it. We'll be making changes and adding new features based on your experiences and feedback. We also already have a ton of things we're working on as updates in the months after launch.

Home Base is a multiplayer online world that connects you to each other and the Scholastic universe. You'll be able to explore a number of islands based on your favorite characters and book series, play games, collect outfits, customize your avatar, and of course hang out and chat with your friends.

Home Base is available on web (at the link below) and on mobile for Android and iOS. It's in the Play store and App store now!

What can we do in Home Base?

At launch, we have 3 different islands for you to explore: The Bad Guys island, I Survived island, and Wings of Fire island. Each island has its own games and activities, some you play solo and others you can play with your friends.

We've designed items for your avatar themed after these series, so if you've always wanted to look like a dragonet this is your chance! *cough*WoF onesies*cough* We're building many additional games and outfits for you to look forward to.

We'll have events, interviews, and videos with authors and our team. You remember that poll I made asking about what sorts of content you'd be interesting in seeing? That was to help me with this.

At first, the only creativity feature available is the chat. That's right - it's Return of the Chat!
Soon, we'll be launching many more tools, such as a comics creator and the ability for us to upload videos.

Our goal with Home Base is to have a world where you can enjoy the series you love in an entirely new way, interact more closely with authors, and continue to be as creative as you've always been with new tools and more freedom.

Please put all feedback and bug reports in this thread: /354371 and finally....Click HERE to play Home Base!

You can login with the same account you use for the forums, and since they're all "Scholastic usernames" you're fine mentioning them even if it's a different account from the one you use here.
